

Giving Students a Voice Through Writing!

A Literature & Writing project in Florida completed

June 8, 2012

Dear Suzanne Willett,

I want to personally thank you so much for providing me with the amazing materials that have allowed my students to find their voice through writing! When we received the packages it was like Christmas for many of these kids, they were so excited! I explained to them that someone they didn't know had bought all these amazing materials to help them learn to write and find their own voice. Most of them wanted to know why, they have never heard of someone who doesn't even know them giving them gifts or anything for that matter. You have given my students the ability to find their voice through writing which is such an important gift but even more importantly you gave my students the ability to see their worth and their importance. You showed them that someone cared for them and believed in them so much that they bought them things to help them learn. My students to most people are just some disadvantaged kids, but to me they are the future and they deserve the world and more. Thank You for believing in them and for helping me to give them the necessities to see their own abilities and future successes, thank you for giving them the first step towards their success, a voice through writing.

With gratitude,
Ms. Lowery

Your donation will provide Ms. Lowery with a DonorsChoose.org gift card she can use toward her next classroom project.
